Biographical Information:

I hear, "You have a wonderful website!"

I say, "Thank you," knowing that that's Leyeela, encouraging me to keep doing the work of introducing all of cosmos to planet earth.

"Well, not all of cosmos," I hear.

I know. They're just starting with the races that look more like races on earth.

"Yes", she says.

To be honest, some of them are pretty scary looking. Like I've seen Anu, who's an Annunaki, and that just isn't someone you'd want to turn up in your bedroom just before retiring, for sure! Many species have horns, forked tongues and multiple eyeballs and I don't think earthlings are ready for that yet.

"And we don't plan to scare you, absolutely not. The fact is, darling, that the races you'll meet first are beings you're familiar with, if through yourselves and your animal phyllum, you'll get to know those who are most familiar to you." That's kind of you.

"We are kind! Absolutely! There are races out there who have no appearance, even, so how do we introduce them to the people of earth. Very difficult."

How about introducing yourselves? I don't know why I'm stalling on introducing my parents to the people of earth, but I think it has to do with being a very special moment, same as Ivo and my children, and I don't think putting them up on a website is really the appropriate way to introduce my parents even to myself, but then to others.

"No, do what you feel is appropriate."

Now, you Leyeela, I know you and I are like two girlfriends. We go around and do things together and we talk about everything.

Leyeela: We do.

Me: How about Toran? What does he do when you and I are off doing our "girl stuff" together?

L: He's got his own things to do.

Me: Is he part of the Federation as well? Do you have a role to play in this?

L: I don't, but Toran is an advisor to the Vegan High Council.

Me: Ah. My old haunt.

L: And he has gone with you on jaunts off to other planets, when you've been on missions of mercy or at least introduction or adjudication, as you do with your work. He goes along with you.

Me: My earth mind is saying that he makes sure I stay faithful to Ivo with all those nice looking alien men out there but that's just my dirty mind.

L: You are always faithful to Ivo. When you have a perfect man, what more do you need?

Me: I know. I'm saying that's just my lower mind and her warped thinking.

L: Yes, you have that to deal with too. We understand.

IMPLANT COMMUNICATIONS

Me: Can Toran join this conversation as well?

T: I'm here. I've been listening. I listen to you often.

Me: How does that work for you?

T: You're confusing. I see you thinking about working on your website with a huge list of items that need to be done, and you're hoping you can get them all done this month. Finally, you were prompted to break them down into manageable pieces.

Me: I know. Sometimes I think my mind thinks it can do so many things, like multi-task the way my Vegan mind would, but then I have to remember the earth body can't go as fast. And today I'm not suffering from confusion or brain fog, so I'm running as fast as I can, wanting to get everything done.

T: So you wisely realized that you can't, and broke it out into manageable parcels. Sharon, yes, the excitement of what you're doing overtakes you as well at times.

Me: It does. So, Toran, you're an advisor to the Grand Vegan Council. I've met them, spoken primarily to Parsifia and Rolonto, and got their portraits done, what is your role specifically to the council?

Toran: Well, best I can explain it, I am a contractor in your terms, and I work on manifestation of vehicles that can help other races that the council helps to gain unity.

Me: Like here you'd be one of the people going around on earth to try to get warring sides to create peace?

Toran: Yes, but I work with creating the physical implements to do so.

Me: Like, give us an example please.

Toran: For example, there is a planet in constellation Yarem-1, which you're not familiar with, and the Vegan council was attempting to unify the two warring sides. What in fact we did, was to manifest a floating wall, and this wall absorbed any projectiles that were launched from either side. Yes. A 4D planet, barely so, but largely negative in polarity, it was warring with the positive polarity planet next to it, and so we put up a barrier that prohibited any physical warring. They were forced to stand down, and to begin to resolve their differences through talk, and to this day, they are getting along better, albeit the council is still busy with their case.

(Imagine that, a field really, and the frequency of this "wall" just absorbs anything launched at it and neutralizes it. We need to tell Mr T about that, since he's into walls.)

Me: So you don't have soldiers that to in as peacekeepers.

Toran: (smiling) We have no soldiers, dear, we have only ourselves. We need no armaments.

Me: But those planets thought they did.

Toran: They are like yours, still in their infancy of consciousness.

Me: What does Eran do? I sensed he helps you with this?

Toran: He does. He is busy helping in this project, and then in another project of Vegan initiation, helping another race in Si-Vega to ward off destructive radiations from their mother sun.

Me: How does that work?

Toran: The planet has tilted and its orbit has changed. Now it is subject to the radiations of the primary sun in that galaxy, not the smaller sun it was revolving around. They are suffering enormously as their livelihood is dying out. So we are there to help and to help revive the planet.

Me: Do you take downtime?

Toran: Of course. I must be with my lovely partner, and our grandchildren and great grandchildren. These noble souls need our council as well.

Yes, you do like to describe us by what we do rather than by who we are. That's an earth habit, however that will change.

Me: How do I ask you two, who are you?

Leyeela: We are the embodiment of love. We are love's expression.

Me: See? That's why. That says everything and says nothing to me.

Toran: You'll understand one day, again. You are asking when we will meet. I'm seeing May or June of your calendar year 2021.

Me: So soon, good! I can't wait. I hope you'll be there with Ivo. I do remember I feel as close to you as I do my own parents.

Eran I feel like he's a "kid brother" to me because he's a bit younger than us.

Toran: Eran is 50 years old.

Me: Oh! He's just a baby!

Toran: Just out of mother's womb!

Me: He must love Ivo, who's so wise.

Toran: We all do. It is an honour to have such a developed soul in our midst.

Me: I know. Here too. Thank you Toran and Leyeela, I'll speak to you soon, then. In the flesh.

Toran & Leyeela: Very good. We miss you. We love you Tiannia.
