What Am I Here to Do?

~ Sharon Stewart

So many people want to know how to figure out what their life purpose is as a lightworker. You need to read more spiritual stuff. When you understand your spiritual nature, you'll understand more about who you are as a creator.

So, How to figure out what you're here to do.

I can tell you from my own experience that :

All the jobs I worked, my initial career choices, were correct. I chose to work in offices as office support and as it turns out that was the perfect thing for me to do, because it fits in with what I do now: communicate. So you tend to gravitate towards fields or hobbies that will prepare you for your work. That's clue #1. My other interest is spirituality and psychology, and I've read books and done courses on these subjects for many many years. Guess what? I use what I learned now.

Another way you know what it is is because you love it. Yes, that's right. Why would your soul send you here to do something you hate? What kind of motivation would that be?

Think of people who were doing things that you met that impressed you. That motivational speaker you've always listened to, the travel journalist whose articles about African safaris, or the biologist who went into the outback to study insect life..... people you've admired for doing things you thought highly of. Because again, why would you come here to do some schlep job that you hate doing? Of course. When you admire others for their work and you feel you'd like to be like them. Bingo! Another clue. That's not to say every person, but if you can see trends, then that helps. I admire Robert Plant's singing and Jimmy Page's guitar playing but it's never been my intention to go up and sing and play guitar, although I am musically inclined in my Vegan life as Tiannia. But I believe it's the things that really speak to your heart. Follow them.

Again, back to spirituality. Your higher self is leading you. All your life, your higher self has been drawing you, pushing and pulling you, towards the things you need to do to become more aware. One of these things is me, for example. You're being guided in the non-physical towards what you need to experience in order to be doing your pinnacle work, because if you're like me, you've always been a lightworker at heart. I will say again your whole life is preparing you for this peaking of your role.

So then, you say, "I want to be this and do that as my life's work but right now I'm flipping burgers. I just don't see me even close to what I'm doing." Well, I wouldn't have figured either but my last job was one of flipping burgers, far from what I would ever have considered doing if I didn't need to earn money. I ended up going on disability from there because the stress of the job (yes, they can be stressful especially if these places are poorly managed), overwhelmed me. I went to see my welfare caseworker and SHE told me I needed to go on disability. It wasn't even my idea. I was so stressed, I thought "Sure!" and I did get on disability. When I look back at it, I created that for myself. I used to be so stressed out working that I'd go, "Ugh! If I could just get 6 months off paid, I'd feel so much better!" I dreamt of being on a pension and out of the workforce. So I created that for myself. If you are at point A and want to be at point B, create the route. Ask your higher self for help and if it's your life's work, you'll be amazed at how you'll get there. Even to what you never thought was possible, like how I live today.
